

The only way for democracy to work is if we have a open dialogue that includes the many different voices in our society. If only one company owns all the media outlets, dialogue and democracy are stifled. We need to hear opposing viewpoints so that we can come to decisions that reflect everyone's viewpoints.